English gentleman has no secret for a long life

April 5 (UPI) — A 111year-old resident at a British retirement home has officially been named the world's oldest living man by Guinness World Records.

The record-keeping organization said John Alfred Tinniswood of Southport, England, was awarded the title after the death of 114-yearold Venezuelan man Juan Vicente Pérez and officials confirmed the former second-oldest living man, 112-year-old Japanese man Gisaburo Sonobe, died March 31.

Tinniswood, born Aug. 26, 1912, still gets out of bed himself, manages his own finances and listens to the radio each day to keep up with the news.

He attributed his longevity to "pure luck."

"You either live long or you live short, and you can't do much about it," he told GWR.

Tinniswood said he doesn't follow any special diets, but he finds moderation to be the key in remaining healthy.

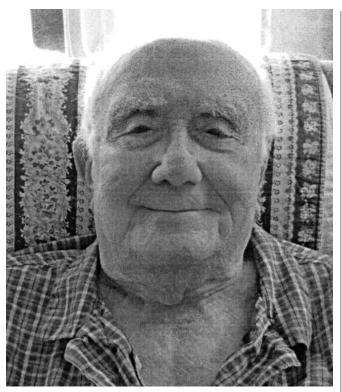

"If you drink too much or you eat too much or you walk too much; if you do too much of anything, you're going to suffer eventually," he said.

Tinniswood has one daughter, four grandchildren and three greatgrandchildren.

Celebrating 2 centuries of life

Ken Gray (above photograph), long time Linden resident, was born on April 19, 1924 in a homestead dugout (something similar to a After school and on basement) in La Mar, Colorado.

He was raised on a 500 acre farm with his grandmother in a stone house with dirt floors, later moving to a 5,000 acre ranch where Ken's uncles were working cowboys.

The Gray Family moved to Yakima, Washington when Ken was a boy. His dad made 15¢ an hour working for a lumber company in the 1930s.

Ken walked two miles one way to grammar school and in high school four miles by a bicycle.

weekends (including Sunday) Ken worked at a greenhouse business for a dime an hour in

As time went on, she met Harry Wagner. He had served in the Navy on a troop transport during World War II.

Alma and Harry married and moved to Lodi, where he worked for Super Mold.

Alma's grandmother needed help on the farm, so Alma and Harry moved to Linden.

Alma worked for Farmers and Merchant Bank in Linden for 40 years.

She was also involved with Rainbow Girls, Eastern Star and the Linden United Methodist Church.

Alma and Harry had two children; a daughter named Judy and a son Jim.

Her husband Harry passed away in 2015 and earlier their daughter passed away.

As Alma became older, she required a caregiver. The family hired Jimmy and he has been at Alma's side for 20 years.

Alma attends church at the Linden United Methodist Church.

The entire community wishes Alma a happy birthday.

Christianity is not a religion. Religion is man seeking a god. But in Christianity it is exactly the opposite: it is God seeking man through Jesus Christ. Scripture informs us that God "sent His Son" into the world to seek and to save us that we might have a relationship with Him. It is a relationship that is certain, constant and continual. It begins with a grip. A visitor to the Alps decided to go mountain climbing with a famous guide. As they ascended the mountain all went well until they came to a dangerous crevice. His guide held out his hand but the visitor was reluctant and hesitated. "Grab my hand," shouted the guide. "That hand has never lost anyone." So it is with God. "I am always with you," said the Psalmist, "You hold me by my right hand."

It continues with a Guide. God has a plan for each of us. He knows our possibilities and our limitations. Only He can guide us in the right path because He created us to be God guided in paths of righteousness for His name's sake. We often fall short of what God intended us to be and become but if we are willing he will lead us carefully and safely through life. The Psalmist wisely wrote, "You guide me with Your counsel."

It ends in glory - not a grave. What a blessed hope! He extends His sure-handed grip to keep us from falling. And with our hand in His, He guides us every day of our lives. Finally we end up living eternally with Him in heaven. All because our Father loves us with an everlasting love.

Everyone looks forward to a New Year and the hope it represents. "Well wishers" come at us from every direction wanting us to reap a harvest of joy and happiness, peace and prosperity. A "good new year" is a universal desire that everyone seeks. But how can we assure ourselves of having a Happy New Year? The answer comes from Isaiah 41:10.

First, we must honor the two "nots" - do not be afraid and do not be dismayed. Fear and dismay will disturb our minds, trouble our souls and destroy our health. Only as we place our faith in the goodness and grace of God will our fears evaporate and dismay vanish. Second, add the two "I ams" - I am with you and I am your God. Our God is always with us and we are never beyond His reach. When problems arise He wants to solve them. When needs arise He will meet them. When foes would destroy us He will conquer them. When storms appear He will calm them.

Third, we need to mix them with the three "/ wills." / will strengthen you. He has all the strength we need with some to spare. / will help you. Here is help that is seeking us and is sufficient for every situation. / will uphold you. With what? The very same hands that hold the universe together!

If we want the next 12 months to be a Happy New Year we must begin every day of every week of every month of the year reading God's Word and spending time in prayer.

while the other eight crew members, including Allen, were killed. German records indicate the bomber crashed roughly two kilometers west of Boussicourt, where the remains of several individuals were recovered and buried in a village cemetery near Pierrepont-sur-Avre, France.

Beginning in 1945, the American Graves Registration Command (AGRC), Army Quartermaster Corps, was the organization tasked with recovering missing American personnel in the European Theater. Following the war, the AGRC disinterred and identified six sets of remains recovered from the cemetery at Pierrepont-sur-Avre. At the time they were unable to account for Allen and one other crewmember.

In 2018, a DPAA recovery team excavated a site near Boussicourt which they believe correlated with Allen's crash site. While there, they were able to recover possible remains along with other materials believed to be associated with the B-24H. This new evidence, along with previously unidentified remains, were sent to the DPAA laboratory for analysis and identification.

To identify Allen's remains, scientists from DPAA used anthropological analysis. Additionally, scientists from the Armed Forces Medical Examiner System used mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) analysis.

Allen's name is memorialized on the Tablets of the Missing at Ardennes American Cemetery, an American Battle Monuments Commission site in Neupré, Belgium, along with others still missing from WWII. A rosette will be placed next to his name to indicate he has been accounted for.

Tech Sgt. Allen will be buried in Sacramento on July 12,

Cop plays tackle football with a runaway pig

April 5 (UPI) — A Utah police officer was caught on camera dive-tackling a pig running loose through a residential neighborhood.

Grantsville police said three pigs had been on the loose for several days and the porcine perpetrators were accused of leaving a trail of destruction in their wake.

"I'd say about a week ago we got a call about a couple of loose pigs running around town, getting into people's yards and going through their gardens, going through their animal paddocks and things like that," Officer Cory Cooper told KSTU-TV.

Cooper said he and about four other officers responded when the pigs were spotted in a neighborhood on Thursday. Cooper was caught on video doing a dive-tackle to catch one of the four-legged fugitives.

"Pigs are notorious for escaping," the officer said. "I've known a lot of people who've had them and I've had some experience chasing pigs down when they get out."

Cooper said all three pigs were captured and taken to an animal rescue.

Take another look at your kids' old comic books

April 5 (UPI) — A copy of the comic book that introduced Superman to the world became the world's most expensive comic book when it fetched $6 million at auction. Heritage Auctions said the copy of Action Comics No. 1, the 1938 comic book featuring the first appearance of Superman, attracted a recordbreaking high bid of $6 million at Thursday's auction.

The comic book, featuring the iconic Man of Steel on its cover, was inspected by collectible-grading service CGC and given a grade of "Very Fine+ 8.5," making it the third-highest graded copy of Action Comics No. 1 known to still exist.

CGC said only about 100 copies of the comic are believed to still exist, as the service has only graded 78 copies over the years.

The comic was published by National Allied Publications, the predecessor to the modern-day DC Comics.

The previous record for most expensive comic book was a copy of Superman No. 1 that sold privately for $5.3 million in 2022.

The previous most expensive comic book sold at auction was a CGC Near Mint+ 9.6 copy of Amazing Fantasy No. 15, the first appearance of Spider-Man, which sold for $3.6 million in September 2021.

Cops come to Florida gator aid

April 8 (UPI) — A Florida woman had to call 911 to get help ejecting an unwanted house guest: a nearly 8-footlong alligator.

Mary Hollenback said she was at her home in Venice's Grand Palm Community when she heard banging at her front screen door.

"I thought it was somebody else who didn't live here trying to get into the wrong house," Hollenback told WTVT-TV. "I got off the couch and came around the door prepared to say, 'You're in the wrong place."

Hollenback said she had two thoughts when she saw the actual source of the sound: "One is, 'Oh my gosh, I have an alligator in my house,' and number two is, 'Oh my gosh, I have an alligator in my house; how am I going to get rid of him?"

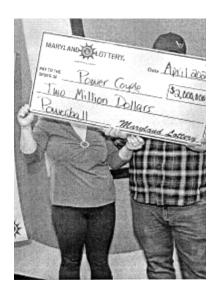

Hollenback called 911, and it ended up taking the combined efforts of several Sarasota County sheriff's deputies and Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission officers to get the 7-foot, 11-inch gator out of the house

The homeowner said the gator must have traveled from a nearby pond to force its way through her door.

"He had to go through two yards, cross the street and come into my house, but nobody saw him, and it's very surprising," she said.

Big 'mistake' leads to big money

April 8 (UPI) — A Maryland man who mistakenly bought two identical tickets for the same Powerball drawing ended up winning a pair of $1 million prizes.

The Annapolis man told Maryland Lottery officials he visited the 7-Eleven store on Bestgate Road in Annapolis and used the lottery terminal's replay feature, which scans old tickets for winners and prints new tickets bearing the same numbers.

The man said he didn't consider that his stack of tickets to scan included some bearing the same sets of numbers, so he ended up with some duplicates.

The player brought his tickets back to scan them after hearing the 7-Eleven had sold two $1 million winning tickets. He said he realized he had duplicates when four of his tickets won $4 each.

The man said he was shocked when he scanned a ticket that matched the first five numbers from the drawing, earning a $1 million prize. The player called his wife before scanning the rest of the stack.

"We had our crying moment," he recalled. "Twenty minutes after that, when I put the ticket down, I went back to the other tickets."

The man's wife said he predicted what happened next. "He said, 'I still have tickets to go through. What if I have the second million-dollar ticket?" she recalled.

The man discovered he did indeed possess the second $1 million ticket.

"It was mind-blowing," he said. "I had no idea I doubled it."

The couple said they plan to invest their winnings.

A chicken in every pot and a pair of eclipse-protective spectacles for every chicken

April 9 (UPI) — One unusual solar eclipse spectator who watched the sun disappear in Arkansas is going viral for her particularly tiny pair of protective glasses and her feathered form watched the eclipse Monday with his pet chicken, Gertrude, in his arms and wearing her own pair of eclipse protection glasses.

Tad Fendley, of Amity,

Fendley's sister, Carolyn Fendley Shell, snapped a photo of the scene and posted it to social media, earning Gertrude several new fans.

Fendley told KTHV-TV that Gertrude was so excited by her first solar eclipse that she laid an egg during the event laid an egg during the event. The brother and sister said they attempted to outfit their cows with eclipse glasses so they could also enjoy the rare phenomenon, but the animals weren't interested in donning eye wear.

The normal person would have the boat throttle at full speed ahead with 'Jaws' nearby

A serene day on the water took a turn when a curious great white sharkapproached a small fishing boat. One of the fishermen, who floated idly at the back of the boat, was blissfully unaware of the approaching predator. A drone flying above captured the entire scene. The drone operator could see the approaching shark and the obliviousness of the group on the small boat. In a desperate attempt to warn the fishermen, the drone operator starting making erratic maneuvers with the drone.

This caught the fisherman's attention on the boat, who quickly realized the gravity of the situation.

With urgency, the friend in the water was alerted and leapt back onto the boat, narrowly escaping a close encounter with the great white shark.

Want to live to 130? eat fish & legumes

Valter Longo, who wants to live to a healthy 120 or 130, sees the key to longevity in diet — legumes and fish — and faux fasting.Dr. Longo, who is also a professor of gerontology and director of the U.S.C. Longevity Institute in California, has long advocated longer and better living through eating Lite Italian, one of a global explosion of Road to Perpetual Wellville theories about how to stay young in a field that is itself still in its adolescence.

In addition to identifying genes that regulate aging, he has created a plant- and nutbased diet with supplements and kale crackers that mimics fasting to, he argues, allow cells to shed harmful baggage and rejuvenate, without the down side of actually starving. He has patented and sold his ProLon diet kits; published best-selling books ("The Longevity Diet"); and been called an influential "Fasting Evangelist" by Time magazine.
