$50 garage sale painting may be worth $15 million

Jan. 30 (UPI) — A New York-based art firm announced its experts have verified that a painting bought for $50 from a Minnesota garage sale is a long-lost work by Vincent van Gogh.

LMI Group said it plans to present a report's findings to a group of van Gogh scholars and dealers. If authenticated, the painting would be worth an estimated $15 million, the firm said.

The painting, titled Elimar, was previously analyzed by the Netherlands' Van Gogh Museum, which determined the artwork was not created by the famed painter, who died in 1890.

The museum said its determination was based on "stylistic features."

The painting was purchased for $50 from a garage sale in Minnetonka and was sold to LMI Group International, a New York-based art research firm, in 2019.

LMI Group released a 450-page report this week arguing in favor of the previously-unknown painting's authenticity as the work of van Gogh. The report posits that van Gogh painted Elimar in 1889 while confined to a French psychiatric asylum, the same place he created other famous paintings such as Starry Night.

LMI Group said its team included art experts and historians, scientists and data analysis. Their evidence includes an analysis of the writing in the word "Elimar" in the corner of the painting, an analysis of the materials used to create the painting and a DNA analysis of a red hair found in the painting that was determined to have come from a hu-

Murderess hid 53 yrs—finally found—in grave

By Meghan Grant
Crime reporter

Fifty-five years after Missouri murderer Sharon Kinne escaped from a Mexican prison, American authorities confirm the fugitive hid for decades in a small Alberta, Canada town.

Recently, Jackson County Sheriffs confirmed that Kinne, who was linked to three murders in two countries, had been hiding out three hours south of Calgary, in the town of Taber, for 49 years until her death in 2022 at the age of 81.

Kinne had been living under the name Diedra (Dee) Glabus in the sleepy prairie town of about 9,000 residents, best known for its corn crop.

It's unclear if anyone in the town knew she was a fugitive, on the run from both Mexican and Missouri police. Or if they just knew Glabus as a bridge-playing local realtor and volunteer.

Tip came from Albertan

Capt. Ronda Montgomery with the Jackson County Sheriff's Office told reporters at a Kansas City news conference last week that police received an anonymous tip in December 2023 from someone in Alberta.

The "courageous" tipster told police that Kinne had been living in Alberta under the name Diedra Glabus, said Montgomery.

Police then subpoenaed the funeral home in Taber. In Canada, in certain circumstances, people can be fingerprinted after they die.

Investigators finally had the answers that had evaded them for decades.

'La Pistolera'

The recently deceased 81-year-old was, indeed, the fugitive who had disappeared in 1969 in the middle of serving a sentence for a murder in Mexico and while wanted in the 1960 slaying of her husband, who was fatally shot in his bed.

While Kinne's final conviction count for murder stands at just one, it is widely believed she killed two others.

The fatal shootings took place between 1960 and 1964 and stretched from Independence, a satellite city of Kansas City, to Mexico City, where the press gave her a nickname — "La Pistolera," the female gunslinger.

Sharon Kinne was first arrested in 1960 by Jackson County sheriffs. She was charged with the murders of her husband and the wife of a man with whom she was having an affair.

In 1964, Kinne was a month away from a retrial for the 1960 murder of her husband when she skipped town, heading south to Mexico, where, within a matter of days, she killed a man in the course of a robbery.

And although three years earlier she had been acquitted by a Missouri jury in the death of Patricia Jones, the wife of her lover, police discovered the murder weapon used to kill Jones in Kinne's Mexico City hotel room.

Back in Jackson County, investigators had their own nickname for Kinne.

Col. William Morton called her the Pistol Packin' Mama.

Morton died in 2011, but in the 1990s he and two other officers who were involved in the Kinne investigation did an interview on a Kansas City talk radio station, KCMO, with host Mike Murphy.

Morton was first on the scene when Kinne called for police after her husband was shot in the head.

There's plenty of water

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California water officials said this week there's no truth to President Donald Trump's assertion that the U.S. military has entered California and "turned on the water."

Trump's comments, made recently on his social media platform Truth Social, are the latest in a series of remarks he's made and actions he's taken related to the state's water policy following devastating wildfires that ripped through the Los Angeles area this month. He's often offering an incomplete or incorrect assessment of the state's water policies or tying together unrelated issues.

"The United States Military just entered the Great State of California and, under Emergency Powers, TURNED ON THE WATER flowing abundantly from the Pacific Northwest, and beyond," the Republican president wrote. "The days of putting a Fake Environmental argument, over the PEOPLE, are OVER. Enjoy the water, California!!!"

Gov. Newsom and Pres. Trump have it out during a meeting at the LA fires site.

The California Department of Water Resources said in a post on X that the "military did not enter California."

"The federal government restarted federal water pumps after they were offline for maintenance for three days," the agency posted. "State water supplies in Southern California remain plentiful.

Liberal Democrat California Assemblymember Rhodesia Ransom of Tracy has her own views on the matter. She issued a rebuke of the federal President Trump's administration's proposed plan to divert water from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta to Southern California.

The proposed plan threatens the lifeblood of the Delta region, which supports families, farmers, businesses, wildlife, and the cultural practices of sovereign and state-recognized California tribes. Sustainable access to water is vital for these communities and indus-

6 more weeks of winter, says Punxsutawney Phil

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PENNSYLVANIA - FEBRUARY 2: Groundhog handler AJ Dereume holds Punxsutawney Phil after he saw his shadow predicting 6 more weeks of winter during the 139th annual Groundhog Day festivities on February 2 in Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania.

The U.S. National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration released a study analyzing the annual prognostications of weather-predicting groundhogs and found the most famous, Punxsutawney Phil, didn't even crack the top 10.

NOAA released the study ahead of Groundhog Day, which falls on Sunday, to analyze which groundhogs — along with one prairie dog statue and a tortoise — were the most accurate in predicting whether spring would come early or late.

Only groundhogs who have been predicting the weather for at least 20 years were included in the study, and each had to still be active as of Feb. 2, 2024.

The most accurate weather predictor of the bunch was found to be Staten Island Chuck, who accurately predicted the arrival of spring 85% of the time. The rest of the top five were Georgia's General Beauregard Lee, at 80%; a Wyoming Prairie Dog statue named Lander Lil, with 75%; a mythical West Virginia groundhog named Concord Charlie, at 65%; and Illinois' Gertie the Groundhog, with 65 percent.

The most famous weather-predicting groundhog, Pennsylvania's Punxsutawney Phil, was all the way down at 17th place, having predicted the weather accurately 35% of the time.

"A beloved national celebrity, legend has it that he has been prophesying when spring would arrive from his burrow on Gobbler's Knob since 1887," NOAA said. "How has he lived for so long? The answer is simple... the 'groundhog nog' fed to him each fall at Punxsutawney's annual Groundhog Picnic!"

Seeds of Hope

The school of suffering has many graduates. It seems that most of them provide insight into the grace and mercy of God for those willing to hear them speak.

King David was a graduate of this school. What he learned about suffering is revealed in the sixth Psalm. He begins by describing his pain and the fear he has of his enemies. He shares with us a list of symptoms that most of us have experienced at one time or another: emotional stress, crying, sleepless nights, being attacked by others. However, when he cried out to God for help, God heard him and heated him.

Whatever brought about the distress of David was relieved when he called on God for His mercy. Here we find a pattern for us to follow when we need God to rescue us from our sin and suffering. First, he asked God not to abandon or punish him. Then he asked for God's compassion and care, admitting that he was weak, "sick at heart" and could not handle the situation by himself. He described his weeping as so intense that "my bed is wet with tears." He was remorseful for what he had done and what God might do to punish him. So, he cried out for God's "unfailing love" and knew that God heard him and he was able to declare with confidence: "The Lord has heard my crying and my plea (and) the Lord will answer my prayer."

God always hears and answers the prayers of anyone at anytime who asks for His forgiveness. There is no limits to His love nor

No one is or ever has been immune from being hurt or harmed by arrows of anger that come from those we thought were our friends. Sometimes the statements that shame and slam us even come from members of our own family. And, unfortunately, some of us may even be guilty of doing to others what they have done to us and caused them pain and sleepless nights. We all know the feelings of pain and panic that come from 11 word wounds" and the problems they have caused us.

David faced the same issues. He spoke of those who persecuted him and wanted to tear him to pieces as a lion destroys its prey. They rage and do wickedness, bring iniquity and bear falsehood and caused him trouble. Those Powerful words leave very little to the imagination. He was not reporting any secondhand observations or reporting what others told him of their experiences. People were out to get him and he knew it.

And he responded to them in a way that sets the Christian standard for revenge. He turned the matter over to God! He began by affirming his relationship to God by declaring, "I come to you for Protection, 0 Lord my God. Save me from my persecutors."

He knew exactly where to go and what to do to solve his problem and heal his wounded heart: He went to His Lord knowing that only He could save him from the harm that others would do to him if they could. We must do as David did. We must call upon the Lord to be our Defense and Defender in times of

Top citizen

Tino Adame Named 2024 Stocktonian of the Year

On Monday, January 27, members of the Central Valley Association of REALTORS® (CVAR), Greater Stockton Chamber of Commerce, and Past Stocktonian's of the Year, surprised Tino Adame with the news he had been chosen as the 71st Stocktonian of the Year. We were able to surprise him with the news during a ceremony to dedicate Richard A. Pittman Drive and Tino Adame Road in front of the French Camp VA Facility.

The Central Valley Association of REALTORS® (CVAR) and The Greater Stockton Chamber of Commerce honor a local citizen each year as the "Stocktonian of the Year" and the 2024 recipient Tino Adame will join the ranks as the 71st "Stocktonian". The Stocktonian of the Year Award honors those individuals who embody the spirit of volunteerism and who have conscientiously served and positively impacted the community. This program strives to recognize those who are making a difference in our City and who do not typically seek or receive recognition for their efforts. The "Stocktonian of the Year" recognizes an individual for their acts of goodness, extensive community involvement and continual devotion to the betterment of Stockton, outside of their paid positions. Tino will be honored at a banquet later in 2025. Banquet date to be announced in early 2025.

Tino Adame has demonstrated exceptional commitment and dedication to improving the lives of others in the Stockton community through a variety of impactful initiatives aimed at supporting veterans and their families. His advocacy and tireless efforts have been instrumental in ensuring that the needs of veterans are recognized and addressed within the community.

One of Tino's most significant achievements is his role in advocating for the establishment of a new Veterans Administration facility in San Joaquin County. This facility provides essential medical and mental health services to local veterans, allowing them to receive care close to home. Tino's persistence in rallying community support and engaging with elected officials has been crucial in securing the resources necessary for this project. His tireless efforts reflect a deep understanding of the challenges veterans face and a proactive approach toward finding solutions.

In addition to the new VA facility, Tino has been a strong proponent for developing veteran housing and resources. Recognizing that many veterans struggle with homelessness and inadequate housing, he has worked diligently to ensure that veterans have access to safe and affordable living conditions. His commitment to this cause has helped create a supportive environment for veterans transitioning back into civilian life, enabling them to regain their independence and dignity.

Tino has also taken the initiative to rally support for veterans from various elected officials and leaders within the community. By forging strong relationships and fostering collaboration among local stakeholders, he has been able to amplify the message that supporting veterans is a community responsibility. His advocacy work has not only raised awareness about veteran issues but has also mobilized resources and services to meet those needs, ensuring that veterans are not forgotten.

Through community events and programs, Tino has continually engaged the public in discussions about the sacrifices of veterans, seeking to educate and inspire others to take action. His leadership in organizing parades and recognition ceremonies has helped to honor veterans' contributions while simultaneously fostering a greater sense of community pride and support for those who have served.

Furthermore, Tino's efforts extend into direct mentoring and support for individual veterans, helping them navigate the complexities of transitioning to civilian life. By offering guidance and connecting veterans with necessary resources, he has made a significant positive impact on the lives of many, demonstrating a deep empathy and understanding of their unique challenges. In summary, Tino Adame's exceptional commitment and dedication to improving the lives of others in the Stockton community are evident in his advocacy for the new Veterans Administration facility, his push for veteran housing and resources, and his ability to rally support from community leaders and elected officials. Through his unwavering efforts, Tino has created a lasting legacy of support and empowerment for the veteran community, exemplifying the true spirit of service and dedication.

Tino Adame's drive to dedicate his time, resources, and efforts toward improving the lives of others and his community stems from the Marine Corps ethos, a strong sense of duty to God and country, and a heartfelt desire to uplift those around him. His exemplary service commitment, leadership, and compassion make him a remarkable candidate for recognition. Tino's profound impact on the Stockton community serves as a shining example of how one individual can make a transformative difference .

ready for dinner and she heard her daughter say 'Daddy, how's this thing work?' Then she heard a shot and she said she ran in the bedroom and discovered her husband," Morton told Murphy.

"She said that the little daughter had shot him, two and a half years.... We bought it at that time."

Motel owner

Col. Morton's grandson, Ryan St. Louis, said his grandfather "would be flabbergasted" to learn Kinne had managed to evade authorities in a small Canadian town.

"For somebody to be able to escape basically prison here, then escape prison in Mexico and be able to live a full life, I don't know if that's ever happened anywhere," said St. Louis from his Kansas City home.

James Kinne was fatally shot in 1960. His wife, Sharon Kinne, blamed the shooting on the couple's two-year-old daughter, but she was eventually charged with his murder after her new boyfriend's wife also turned up dead.

"To be wanted for murder in two different countries and be able to hide in a third country —crazy."

For the last half of her life, Kinne lived as Dee Glabus, a realtor and volunteer in town.

According to the obituary for her husband Jim Glabus, the couple moved to town in 1973 and owned the Taber Motel before working together as realtors.

Glabus was quoted in the Lethbridge Herald in her role as the chair of Taber's daycare centre steering committee.

While living in Alberta, she had two husbands, who both died.

Dee Glabus died in Taber in 2022. She had lived in the town since 1973 and at one point owned the Taber Motel with her first husband, Jim Glabus.

Jim had a history of alcoholism and diabetes, according to the findings of a fatality inquiry, and was drinking the night he died.

Husband dead at 38

According to evidence presented to a judge, Dee tried to get her husband admitted to hospital but was unable due to a shortage of beds.

The judge found Jim died of "asphyxiation from inhalation of gastric juices as a result of being in a diabetic coma."

In 1982, Glabus married Willie Ell. Ell died in 2011 at the age of 79.

Kinne had children in at least two of her marriages, although details are sparse.

Much more is known about the first half of Kinne's life than the latter part as so many of her early activities wound up on the front pages of newspapers, the subject of books and even on an episode of Unsolved Mysteries.

Her early life and crimes are extensively detailed online, in Kansas City Public Library archives, in newspaper clippings, and from the accounts of Morton and two other detectives who were interviewed on KCMO.

Kinne first appeared on the police radar in 1960, at the age of 20, when her husband James Kinne was fatally shot while lying in bed.

When police arrived, Sharon Kinne blamed her two-year-old daughter. Initially, detectives believed her.

Shortly after the death, Kinne used some of her husband's life insurance money to buy a new Ford Thunderbird convertible, according to the detectives, and then promptly began an affair with the car salesman, Walter Jones.

But Walter refused to leave his wife, Patricia Jones, for Kinne.

Three months after James Kinne's death, the body of Patricia Jones was discovered — by Sharon Kinne — just outside Independence, Missouri.

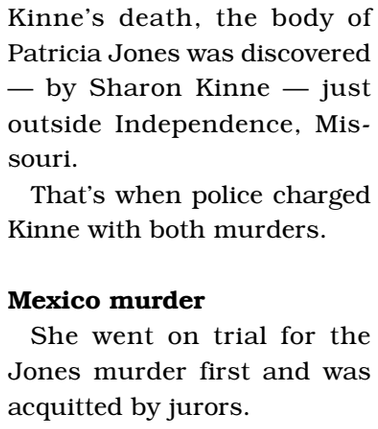

That's when police charged Kinne with both murders.

Mexico murder

She went on trial for the Jones murder first and was acquitted by jurors.

Next was her trial in her husband's death. She was found guilty, but the conviction was overturned because of problems with the jury.

Two more trials took place with both resulting in mistrials.

A fourth was scheduled for October 1964. At the time, Kinne was out on bail.

Sharon Kinne signs autograph for juror Ogdon Stephens just moments after Stephens and 11 other men acquitted her in the murder of Patricia Jones.

One month before that trial was set to begin, Kinne and her new beau travelled to Mexico City.

There, she shot Francisco Paredes Ordoñez while attempting to rob him. When a hotel employee came running after the sound of gunshots, Kinne shot him, too. The employee survived.

Double jeopardy

When police searched Kinne's hotel room, investigators found another gun. Mexican police allowed the Kansas City cops to run ballistics tests on the weapon.

Investigators concluded it was the same gun used to murder Patricia Jones, said Sgt. Dustin Love, with the Jackson County Sheriff's Office.

Double jeopardy laws meant Kinne could not be charged again, despite the new, damning evidence.

Kinne was convicted of Paredes Ordoñez's murder one month after the shooting. In 1969, five years into her 13-year sentence, Kinne escaped from prison.

'Someone had that tip'

Mexican authorities conducted a countrywide manhunt, but Kinne continued to evade police until the anonymous tip led Missouri police to southern Alberta.

Sgt. Love said it's "unfortunate" the case was solved only after Kinne's death.

"She was really good at what she did. She hid really well," said Love.

"Someone had that tip and was not willing to release it until after her death."

Police say that, while the case is officially closed, they're still interested in hearing from anyone who can fill in the details of Kinne's life after 1969. In a brief statement read aloud at the news conference, the Kinne family referred to their "traumatic legacy" and expressed gratitude that "this chapter in our family history can be closed."

"Sharon never faced consequences for her actions."

After all the rain the thought comes to my mind we're all all the fish now ? It's cold and clear except for at the bank, worms are washing down the mud from all the rains lately and I'm camping out right outside in the oxygen layer waiting for a bug and the full moon to emulate my food supply i get hungry and go closer smells of earth worms and crawdads instinctively I find a school of my friends after than a football team . Check local reports on catch rates.

The Berryessa bass bite is cooling off, but slow and methodical techniques are still getting fish. Spotted bass are chasing shad, and underspins or A-rigs are producing consistent bites as long as you work them slowly. Focus on points and steep rocky areas. As you may have heard Lake Berryessa is following decontamination procedures because of the Golden Mussel found in the Port of Stockton Delta. For more information go to the Solano County Water Agency website. They currently have a decontamination site at Steele Park Launch area.

Managers at the Northern Pikeminnow Sport-Reward Fishery today announced on Facebook that The Dalles station will open Monday, April 14, followed by the Columbia Point and Umatilla stations on the following Monday, April 21.

Most other stations will open on the traditional May 1 start of the season that pays anglers from $6 to $10 for 9-plus-inch fish.

The goal of the program isn't to catch all of the pikeminnow on the Columbia from its mouth up to Priest Rapids Dam and the Snake from its mouth up Hells Canyon Dam but to structure the population through fishing so as to achieve lower predation rates on young salmonids.

The native species has an outsized impact on outmigrating Chinook, coho and steelhead smolts in the still-water reservoirs of the Columbia and Snake hydropower system. Specially tagged fish are worth $500.

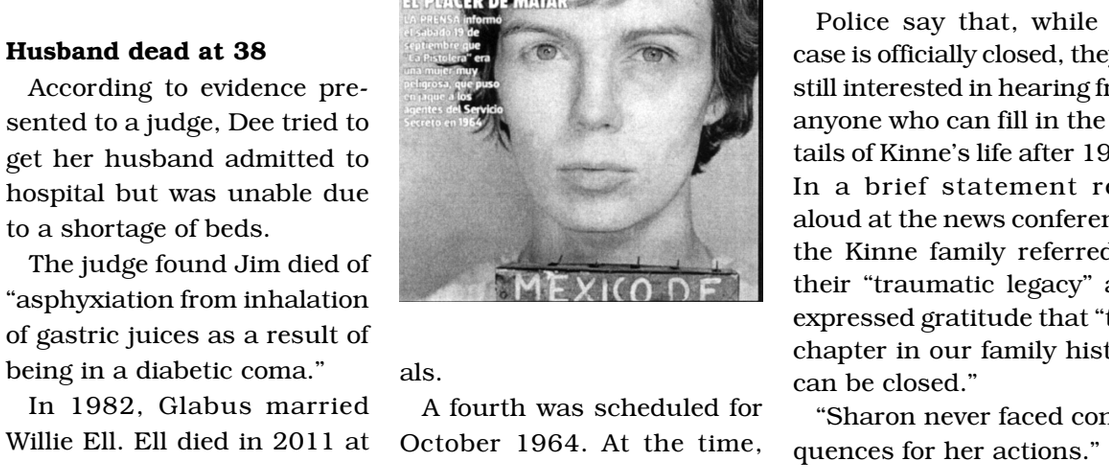

Last season closed five days early because available funding for the May-September fishery was expected to have been distributed to participating anglers before it wrapped up for the year thanks to "above-average catches." It also saw a record haul for one fisherman who made $164,260 for bringing in 16,150 qualifying fish.

Funding comes from the Bonneville Power Administration. The program began in 1991.

You can't cry over spilled milk— but someone must have

Jan. 30 (UPI) — Firefighters in Florida said drivers on a stretch of interstate faced a slippery — and potentially smelly — mess when a truck spilled approximately 4,160 gallons of milk.

Palm Beach County Fire Rescue said on social media that the crash occurred just after midnight Wednesday in the northbound lanes of Interstate 95 and caused a Borden truck to lose its load — hundreds of crates of milk.

PBCFR said 11 people were evaluated by emergency responders after the "'udderly' unfortunate crash."

"Thankfully they were uninjured and none of them needed to be 'moo-ved' to the hospital," the post said.

Firefighters estimated about 4,160 gallons of milk were spilled across the roadway.

"It took almost 3 hours to clean up after this 'cream-mergency,'" officials wrote.

Woman rescues dog—firefighters rescue woman

Jan. 31 (UPI) — Police and animal rescue officers in Missouri came to the rescue of a woman who became stranded in a kayak after saving a dog that fell through the ice on a frozen lake.

The Holts Summit Police Department said on social media that an officer and an animal control officer responded to a report of a dog that fell through the ice of a frozen lake near Dogwood Drive and Summertree Lane.

"Upon arrival, officers discovered that a brave Good Samaritan had taken a kayak onto the frozen lake in an attempt to save the dog," the post said. "While the dog had been successfully rescued, the female in the kayak became stuck on the ice, unable to safely return to shore."

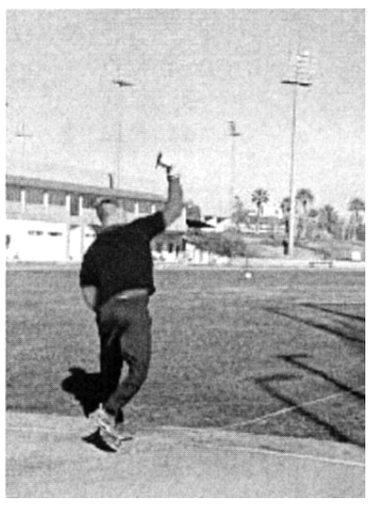

The officers used a water rescue throw bag to reach the woman and tow her kayak back to shore.

"Thankfully, both the dog and the female were unharmed," police wrote.

Man has ax to grind by throwing one on target at 183+ feet

Jan. 30 (UPI) — A Turkish man used his powerful throwing arm to lob an ax a distance of 183 feet, 8.72 inches — earning his eighth Guinness World Records title in the process.

Osman Gürcü, 43, broke the record for the farthest distance ax throw when he struck his target from a distance further than the length of an Olympic swimming pool, which is 164 feet long.

The previous record of 143 feet was set by American Jesse Rood.

"It was an incredible feeling to break the record, because the distance is very far and you have to be able to get far and at the same time the ax has to get stuck in the target board," Gürcü told Guinness World Records. "I hit it many times but it didn't get stuck and I never gave up."

Gürcü's previous Guinness World Records titles include the farthest basketball hook shot (82.02 feet), the longest cornhole shot (85 feet, 3.6 inches) and the farthest throw of a rubber chicken (114 feet, 9 inches).

Daughter will no longer borrow money from Dad—but Dad might

Feb. 3 (UPI) — A Michigan woman received a random gift from her father and ended up winning a $4 million lottery prize.

The 26-year-old Oakland County woman told Michigan Lottery officials the scratch-off ticket was handed to her by her father.

"My dad bought a $150,000,000 Spectacular instant game ticket and gave it to me," the player said. "I was surprised when he handed it to me, and I asked him why he bought it for me. He said it was a 'just because gift,' which I thought was really nice of him."

The gift turned out to be worth more than the $30 her father paid for the ticket.

"When I scratched the ticket off, I was stunned to see that it was a $4 million winner. I had so many emotions going through my body. I screamed. I cried. I was and still am shocked I won $4 million," she said.

The winner said her prize money will go into savings.

Baby shark is born—but no dad is found anywhere

Feb. 3 (UPI) — Officials at a Louisiana aquarium are investigating the mystery of a swell shark baby that hatched despite its mother having no contact with male sharks for at least three years.

The Shreveport Aquarium said members of its husbandry team were shocked when they spotted an egg in the swell shark tank about eight months ago.

Officials said the tank holds only two female sharks, and neither has had any contact with a male shark in at least three years.

The female pup hatched Jan. 3 and was dubbed Yoko by keepers.

Experts have posited two potential theories for the unusual hatching: parthenogenesis or delayed fertilization.

Parthenogenesis occurs when a female animal reproduces asexually, essentially creating an exact duplicate of itself. This is what was determined to have happened when a female zebra shark at Chicago's Shedd Aquarium hatched an egg without any male contact in 2022.

Delayed fertilization has also been documented in sharks before, and refers to when an egg becomes fertilized an unusually long time after mating.

The aquarium said DNA testing will be performed once Yoko is large enough for a blood draw and will determine whether parthenogenesis or delayed fertilization occurred.

"This situation is incredible and shows the resilience of this species," Greg Barrick, curator of live animals at Shreveport Aquarium, said in a news release. "We are very excited in the coming months to confirm whether this was indeed a case of parthenogenesis or if it was delayed fertilization. It really proves that 'life, uh... finds a way.'"

GPS route to a ski slope

Jan. 8 (UPI) — Police in Colorado responded to a ski resort to remove an unusual hazard from the slopes: a car that took a wrong turn.

The Summit County Sheriff's Office posted photos to social media showing the car that was found parked on the Schoolmarm ski run at the Keystone Resort.

The sheriff's office said it was "not our everyday illegal parking call."

Deputies found a note stuck to the car's window explaining the driver took a wrong turn while following a GPS route and ended up stuck on the slope.

A tow truck was able to remove the car from the slope and the vehicle was returned to its owner.

Merry Christmas, son, 46 yrs late

Jan. 8 (UPI) — Christmas came about 46 years late for an Illinois man who was performing renovations at his childhood home when he found a present that had fallen behind a wall in 1978.

Tim King, 53, owner of T. King Construction Services in Lombard, said he was renovating the bathroom at his parents' house when he found something inside the wall.

"We took out a medicine cabinet before we drywalled and I thought, 'I'd better just look in there to make sure nothing's back there,'" King told People.com. "And then there it was!"

King discovered a wrapped Christmas gift that had been intended for him to open on Christmas in 1978. He said his parents used to hide gifts in the home's attic, and this one must have fallen into a crawlspace without anyone noticing.
